BATTLE CREEK, MICHIGAN

BATTLE CREEK HIGH SCHOOL

1906/11

To
Harry Roy Atkinson
this Year is Dedicated

Mr. Atkinson, in the past year, has exerted his entire attention toward the betterment of this High School, and the wonderful advance and achievements are due directly to his untiring efforts.

The Senior class takes great pleasure in showing in a concrete way their appreciation of this work.

Among the many gentlemen in Battle Creek striving for the betterment of the School perhaps none have done so much, or their powers so far-reaching as the work of one man;

WILLIAM G. COBURN

For many years he has striven for the betterment of the school and it is with a deep sense of sincerity that the 1921 PAEAN Board offers their gratitude and the gratitude of the Battle Creek High School.

GEORGE D. COOLEY

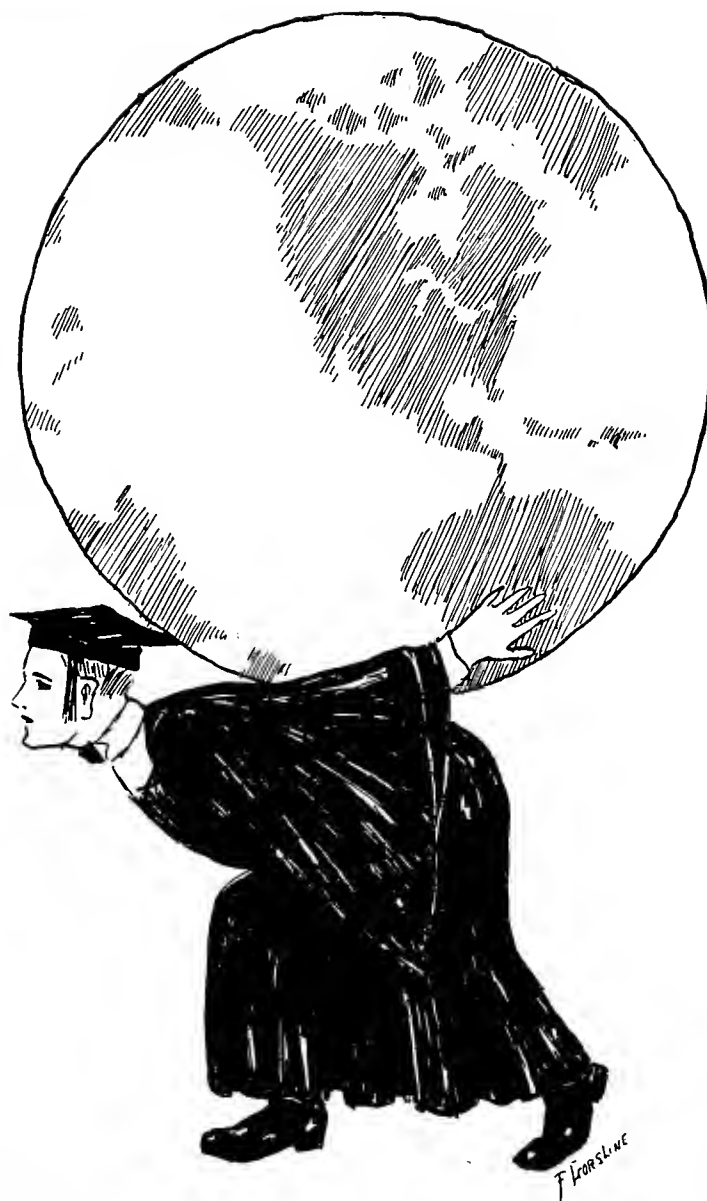

In the publishing of this Annual, there have been many obstacles which could never have been surmounted had it not been for the timely and earnest suggestions from Mr. George D. Cooley. In his position as faculty advisor he has been a wonderful help, particularly in the business end of the work. His interest has been untiring; his help unlimited, and his just dues are the sincere gratitude and thanks of the PÆAN Board of 1921.

MISS CARRIE KRELL

In this PÆAN the members have striven to present the Battle Creek High School life and activities, not only by photographs, but by writing as well. In the chronicling of these events, the assistance of Miss Carrie Krell has been invaluable. Her earnestness and helpful suggestions have contributed largely to any success that this annual may have achieved.

Senior Prophecy

RUBY HART

It was towards evening in a prominent club room in New York. The furnishings were barely discernible in the gathering shadows and the only light came from the shaded reading lamps on the tables. In one corner, four well known men of the world sat reading.

"Great jumping crickets!" exploded one, hidden behind the New York Times. "Listen to this, 'A noted sheriff, Harold Fonda, of Michigan, who became prominent through his daring arrest of two desperate robbers, has been appointed Chief of Police in New York.' Never thought 'Jess' could put it over. Wonder how he stands on that fourteenth amendment?"

The speaker was the famed and versatile person known as "Bindy" Bramble, although he had been christened Merrill.

The most familiar thing about the man sitting at "Bindy's" right, known as Mr. Robinson—spelled with two b's—is his auburn hair. In the olden days he was known as "Louey" Robinson but since he had been cited by the King as the most brilliant advertising man in Europe, he had acquired a slight Eastern drawl and very foreign manners.

"How extroaw'dinary," he murmured as he glanced at a page in the "Notes of Stage-land." Said page read: "Shades of Caesar." As the leading man, he has a remarkable opportunity to display his talents as actor and orator. Miss Hazel Kirkland will be the leading lady with a supporting cast which will include Lyndon Fogelsong, Norman Clark and Gwin Goodwin. June Knisley the famous emotional actress who discovered unknown talents in a High School Senior play, will also appear on Broadway soon.

The next page stated that the Boston Brevities, including Eleanor Harmon, Velma Maxon, Leona Billington, Rhea Sullivan, Florence Schell and Dema McCormack with their manager, Stuart Macomber, were also taking their vacation at Miami.

"Those clevah boys," murmured Mr. L. Robinson, and then added, "Deucedly lucky."

"Deucedly boring, I would say," answered the man sitting at the right and known as Richard Honeychurch. He was tall, fashionably dressed and wore a small mustache on his upper lip. Being the foreign representative of Kuppenheimer's, he had just returned from Paris, and was finding New York rather dull.

"By the way, Dick, what is the news from Paris?" asked the others.

"Well, there's quite a lot. Catherine Baker has married a wonderful chap over there, although it is rumored he does have some sort of title. Having that natural poise and art of entertaining she is rapidly becoming the leading figure in society.

"Claude Burton, Earl Cartwright, Fred Nickels, Leo Powers, Robert Simpson and Ernest Richmond, are all learning to be chefs in the School of Synthetic Home Cooking. But before you give any of them a position I advise you to make a little business call on LaVerne Wright, the best life insurance man in the United States.

"Guila French has become a great soprano and made her debut to the public just before I left. Personally I think she will marry one of her many attentive admirers as her jolly, fun-loving disposition seems ill-suited to the temperamental life of a professional singer.

Frances Gorsline has surprised Paris with some of her art exhibitions.

Percy Fruin, Reuben Alexander, Robert Elliott, Cecile Green and Ray Hamilton, agricultural experts, have been sent over by the government to organize farming societies in the devastated part of France.

"And now 'Bindy', I want to ask about a few things that have happened over here. Where is my old friend, David Rathbun?"

"I guess 'Dave' is down in Hawaii now. You see the Broadway season doesn't open till next month and he doesn't come back till it gets in full swing. I suppose Dame Rumor will have the same strenuous life while he is here, trying to keep track of his reported engagements with advertising companies.

"And that reminds me, Dorothy Graham has promised to close her Fashionable Dress Shop on Fifth Ave., if 'Shorty' Stureman will give up athletics. He's manager of one of the big leagues at present and is seldom home. Here's to a happy life if they come to that agreement.

Here "Louey" interrupted with, "Bah Jove, can it be that Prof. Brigham has fallen asleep?"

The person mentioned was Edward Brigham, a noted scientist who had made many researches into spiritual phenomena.

"Say, old fellow, won't you be so kind as to give us a -er-a manifestation—you know something interesting?"

"Anything in particular? No? Well how would you fellows like a glimpse of your home town? All right? Please watch that wall."

They had no more than looked at it when it disappeared and in its place opened up a scene in a large town half strange, half familiar. It was like looking at a movie screen only the people spoke and the buildings were real.

An elevated roared down Main Street and stopped with a crash of brakes. A man got off and hurried down the street towards a large newspaper building. He was no other than Walter Moore, called "Baldy" by his friends, editor-in-chief of two of the widest circulating newspapers in Michigan. Possibly some of his success is due to the efforts of his able corps of workers, Marjorie Hooper, Janet Hollinger, Lucy Kingsley and Sarah Kingsley, editors and Paul Van Armen, Frank Zinn and Ted Lazura reporters.

The old Post Tavern had been enlarged under the management of Floyd Sumrill and Howard Riley until it now occupied the whole block. The most obvious result of Floyd's being in the partnership was the installation of the largest cabaret in the city. The scene now shifted to that brilliantly lighted room and the four men stared at fairy-like figures that drifted over the polished floor.

"There my friends," said Prof. Brigham, breaking the spell, "are a few of your old school friends. Probably I had better name them as you seem a trifle puzzled."

"The two in the center are LoDema Broceus and Louise Carson, noted dancers from New York and the other graceful girls dancing around them are Frances Thurlow, Nellie Taylor, Ona Sallows, Hilda Merrel, Iada Kain, Helen Harmon and Hilda Hughes. Katie Robertson performs the newest Scottish dances each evening. They have Keene Wolfe in the "Dance of the Jelly Roll" with 'Charlie' Beardsley playing the accompaniment on his magic flute.

"Whenever the management has extracted sufficient money from its patrons to afford it, they send for Kelley's 'Syncopated Six.' Don spent five years in Memphis mastering discords with Oakley Herrick at the piano."

"Good Heavens! man," sighed Bindy, "When does the next train leave for that city?"

"Across the street music of an entirely different nature reigned in a magnificent opera house. It was celebrated for its contracts with such musicians as Maxine Lucas, opera singer, Janette Johnson, violinist and Wilma Leal pianist. All of these noted artists are well known to the public as they make records exclusively for the Victor people.

"I mustn't forget to mention Odds and Ends, a magazine edited once a month and very popular in this city. Elizabeth Morgan is responsible for all the numerous laughs and jokes as she has special talent in that line. Madge Burnham and Helen Cavanagh submit the common sense articles and editorials and Lenore Weeks writes the Discussions on Modern Acting. Gertrude Dutton makes a very capable secretary and treasurer with Ruth Glasure, business manager.

"In the large 'Hotel D'Eats' next door, Mildred Shouldice, head of the Women's Athletic Association with June Tucker, Florence Lazarus and Evelyn Covert on the Executive Board are celebrating their victory over Kalamazoo in their recent Athletic Meet by giving a banquet to the members. A few of the members are: Edna Bigelow, Fern Gardner, Myra Bellman, Doris Campbell, Mildred Heyser, Helen Houghtaling, Thelma Grames, Ella Longman, Marian Ramsey, Rachael Peterson, Merle Miles and Norma Willies.

"Farther down the street Allen Edmunds with a staff of barbers consisting of Harold Devereaux, Laurence Cowles, and Ernest Farley are running the most popular barber shop in town. All prospective customers are met with this sign, 'All Who Enter, Guaranteed a Close Shave.' Immediately below you see Hobart's sign of business, Chipman's Undertaking Parlors on Main Street.

"Holt Hollinger, Glenn Winger and Francis O'Donnell were running a chain of very successful manicure stores with the help of Leda Cross, Marie Frederick, Ruth George, Gertrude Lippencott, Alta Lewis, Margaret Lorenzen, Eva Millar, Zilpha Hamlin, Charlotte Hoyt and Martha Gregory.

"Not to be outdone Phillip Lampke, Frederic Stevens, Kenneth Scudder and Leon Osburn organized the 'Fashion Plate Shop, Inc.,' employing Harry Lam for his Oriental inspirations and Christine Markham, Ida McCauley, Sadie Rosenberg, Katherine Abbey, Mamie Annabelle and Rosalie Anway as designers. And then to show their creations to the best advantage they have Donna Rogers, Marian Preston, Dorothy Ashley, Alta Batdorff, Winifred Harris, Emerita Griffiths, Louise Jennings and Elizabeth Holmberg as models.

"A few others decided to prove their independence by organizing Women's Independence League. Some of their staunchest supporters are Beatrice Matteson, Leah Stiles, Vera Pulver, Myrtle Mooers, Ethel McCauley, Nina Moran, Marian Rodgers, Dorothy Watson, Wilfred Twitchell, Helen Travis, Ruth Thatcher and Arline Whitney.

"Not agreeing with some of their principles, Mulford Shaw, Richard Clark and LeRoy Hart tried to argue with them. Later they joined forces with some of their fellow sympathizers and decided it would be to their advantage to build a hospital.

"Martha Gould is one of the highest salaried French teachers in the state and Glenora Wakeham has accepted a position at Ann Arbor as a teacher of mathematics.

THE SENIORS

1921

Class History

DON KELLEY

The class of nineteen-twenty-one is, if we can believe the most critical judges, the most remarkable class that the Battle Creek High School has as yet turned out. It is in reality "The Vision Splendid."

Four years ago, in the year 1917, this group of young and foolish boys and girls migrated from Number One School and finally settled down in the Assembly room of the High School.

Before leaving Junior High, however, they had received many instructions as to what to do but mostly what not to do, and when they should answer to "Mr." and "Miss" in the Senior High School. This intended useful information was all absorbed but we are afraid very little of it was used at the time. Of course some of the wiser ones got into the inevitable trouble the first thing, and those who did not, stood in line at the office for three days waiting to find out where they were to go. The first year proved to many that they were not as important as they had formerly imagined and believed they were. This fact was made clear to the boys at least, by the upperclassmen in many touching ways, in fact these ways were very forceful and convincing.

The second year of the four-year sentence passed without any very important happenings, and the class as a whole was glad when summer came so that they could forget all that they had learned throughout the year.

The Junior year in high school should be the turning point for the majority of students. It was for the class of '21. During that year it not only had its members in every activity of the school, and was represented on every athletic team but it also produced the best Junior Pageant that had been presented so far by any class of the school and by the diplomatic efforts of some of its members persuaded the School Board to allow the class to revive an old time affair, namely the "J" Hop. The party was a grand success and every one there present will always remember the event. The class officers who guided the ship of state for the year were Floyd Sumrill as president, June Knisely vice-president. The office of secretary was filled by Catherine Baker while "Dick" Honeychurch counted the pennies. The school year ended with every one pleased with the later semester's work.

In the fall of '20 this illustrious class enrolled for its fourth and last year. Class officers were elected immediately. "Dick" Honeychurch was elected president, Catherine Baker, vice-president, Elizabeth Morgan, secretary and Allen Edmonds, treasurer. The members of the class were respected by the underclassmen to a worshipful degree. It can be proudly said that nearly every office of importance in school was held by a Senior. The class was well represented on the best football team the school had turned out in years, also on the all state basket ball squad. This group of students surprised and pleased everyone concerned by advancing the scholarship of the school to a very high degree. This all happened under the fatherly and approving eye of "Daddy" Shuart.

After the Christmas vacation the class settled down to work again and very little was reported from them until several weeks later when under the masterful direction of Miss Bernice L. Jones the class presented "The Chinese Lantern." This play was the very best that a Battle Creek audience had ever had the opportunity to witness in the High School. The next event of the year for the class was the "Prom," which was held in the gym. The expectations of all were fulfilled and the affair was a huge success.

Minor events occurred until June, when with tears and smiles the class as a body was dismissed, to return no more as students of the Battle Creek High School.

Senior Prophecy (Continued)

"Eugenia Miller, La Wave Shoup, Margaret Riley, Adah Rannalls, Winifield Beesley and Claribel Smith have taken up motoring as guides for a profession while Elna Beardsley, Velda Miller, Arlie McLee, Fern Wave, Ernestine Wilbur, Delight Peck, Hildred Pittinger and Reva Zimmerman preferring a higher life are studying aviation under Frances Devereaux and Beatrice Mattison. Later they will study wireless under the wireless expert Charles Thoma.

"Marguerite Ainsworth went into the Movies and is now starring in "When Galoshes Flopped," a very touching old fashioned play of twenty years ago when girls wore their hair as if on frames and queer affairs on their feet.

"And now, my friends, even though there are many more things that are familiar here, I think we have seen the most interesting so we will go back to New York."

A sharp clap of hands and the mahogany beamed wall of their Club stared back at the astonished four.

"That was mighty interesting Ed," said Dick after a few moments of silence. After the others had collected their thoughts they each expressed their admiration at his remarkable power.

"Jove, I'll never forget my High School days," said Louey. "Guess I'll go home and dream I was back again."

"Good idea," answered Bindy. "Supposing we call this a night, and turn in. It must be late."

"Probably is. Goodnight boys."

"Goodnight."

President's Address

RICHARD HONEYCHURCH

Seniors, we have come to the end of our High School days and we must now decide, and plan for our future courses.

Four years of struggle and sacrifice have terminated and our compensation has been claimed. Now we are ready, determined, bubbling over with ambition and inspiration and best of all we are properly equipped to begin Life's journey. However, just how far you wish to go, or rather just how far you will go, lies before you now and your decision means everything. Don't be contented with your recent successes, realize that your future harvests depend entirely upon your education.

Perhaps some of us believe we have completed our education with the termination of our High School days and Success is but a short distance from us. Discard such beliefs and be quick to realize that you will reach your goal only through constant application, and your education will determine the distance between you and Success.

Some of us have passed the most important period of our lives while others, who contemplating higher education still have the same conditions with which to contend. However, these last four years which were filled with worthy experiences, mistakes and achievements combined, make High School days a pleasant memory to us all.

Each of us has some little niche in Life to fill. With that in mind strive to find that particular position and prepare yourself for its problems.

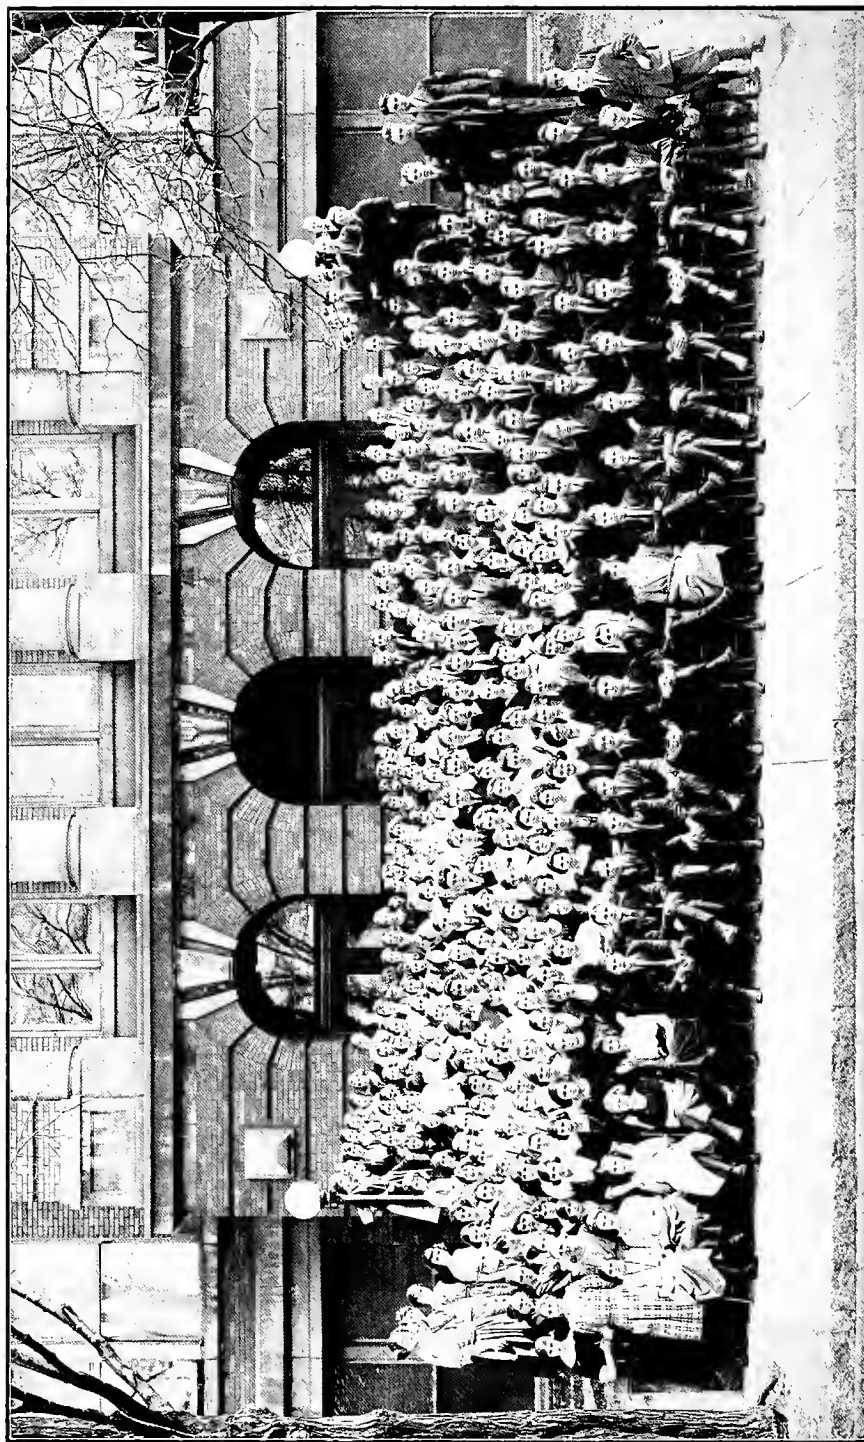

Nor was all the knowledge we acquired gotten from the books. A large measure of practical experience, which goes to make a real education, was created by our associates and enables us to carry forth a spirit of ambition into the world.

Going forth from this school, we leave, with the feeling we have accomplished a wonderful task, a stepping stone to greater things, and many pleasant thoughts.

Our year has been a huge success in every detail and in closing I wish to thank each one for his hearty cooperation given the officers and sincerely thank you for the honor you bestowed upon me as your president. Go forth and struggle with the hardships you encounter until at last your goal is reached; not until then will your compensation be given.

THE JUNIORS

The Eleven-One Class History

HELEN BAKER

Juniors at last! Or at least so we consider ourselves. It sounds better than merely eleven-ones.

Although in the beginning we were partly specials and partly sophomores, we were eventually united into the eleven-one class. And for our officers we wisely elected Dalton Lewis, president; Helena Knapp, vice-president; Keith Redner, secretary; and Fred Kingsley, treasurer.

As a class we have participated in many school activities, and we have done our best to promote enthusiasm for everything in which we have taken part.

The History of the Junior Class

MARY LOUISE KENNEDY

In chronicling the record of the Juniors of the year 1922 it seems almost impossible to condense their achievements into one brief page of class history.

True, we started in as Freshmen, but thanks to you dear teachers and senior members of the student body, we are no longer "fresh" for by imbibing stale events we have become seasoned veterans even as you.

The Juniors boast of some athletic members and many are the games that might have been lost had it not been for the prowess of Beebe, Sherman and Conroy.

The Junior Pageant, "Progress of the King," helped the school to appropriately celebrate the tercentenary landing of the Pilgrims. While it was a somewhat difficult pageant for amateurs, it was voted a great success, being capably directed by Miss Jones.

One of the most successful social events of the season was the "J" Hop. Following precedent it was held in the "Gym," which was beautifully decorated with purple and gold, the class colors.

We have been singularly fortunate in our selection of class officers to direct our activities during our Junior year. Donald Sherman was elected President; Charlotte O'Brien, Vice-President; Richard Thoma, Secretary; and Robert Kirschman, Treasurer.

As a class there has been great unity and harmony; each member seems to believe that an S, two C's, an E and two S's do not spell success, unless U are in it.

The History of the 10-1 Class

"CAPTAIN GERRY"

The good ship "9-2" and her crew, which braved the dangers of the rough and tumbling "Freshman Sea," having overcome all difficulties encountered on the voyage, landed at Sophomore Harbor, February, 1921.

The passengers enjoyed their trip so much, however, that—choosing a new crew and a ship called "10-1" they started out on another voyage.

The chief officers, on the ship's log, consist of Geraldine Conrad—Captain, Edith Heyser—first mate, Doras Horton—keeper of the log, and Charles Norton—paymaster. In addition, Miss Gertrude Landon was engaged as faculty pilot.

A few days after pulling to sea, a terrible storm approached. A few voyagers were thrown from the deck—so great were the "conditional winds." They managed to reach the 9-2 boat, however, and no lives were lost.

The captain reports—fair weather ahead—clear sailing; expect to reach 10-2 Harbor about June 18th.

Sophomore Class History

ALOYSE BRAUER

In September nineteen hundred and nineteen, a new company of boys and girls entered our city high school. These new students believed they could have the same liberties or privileges as the upper-class men, but were obliged to change their opinion. We were called "Freshies," and were forbidden to attend chapel.

Not long after becoming high school students, we effected a class organization by electing officers, and by choosing Miss Bernice Jones as faculty advisor. Under her supervision our class progress was satisfactory, and we celebrated the close of the year by holding a picnic at Goguac Lake.

In September nineteen hundred and twenty, our class received the name of Sophomore. A consolidation of our numbers with those of the "ten two's" was formed, and the following persons elected as officers; President, Dalton Lewis; Vice-Pres., Helena Knapp; Secretary, Keith Redner; Treasurer, Fred Kingsley; Faculty advisor, Miss Melba Bastedo.

Later, the Angel of Death saddened us all when he carried from our class a much-loved member, Fred Kingsley.

This year has brought us new experiences, and has taught us the virtue of perseverance. We were beaten in basket ball by the Seniors, but that defeat will not keep us from "rushing our goal" at the close of the year, nor from expecting future victories.

Nine-two Class History

LOUISE SHOTWELL

On the thirteenth of September, 1920, about one hundred and seventy-five students joined the Freshman Class of the Battle Creek High School.

Having grown accustomed to the new ways, we are now enjoying our second "lap" of school life. We have chosen the following class officers: Wayne Schroder, President; Mary Gabrial, Vice-President; Arthur Richie, Secretary; Neil Robertson, Treasurer. Because of such officers it is likely that our efforts will not miss the target entirely.

We have had two boys on the football team. As long trousers become more stylish and muscles more conspicuous, there will probably be more players from our class. In the orchestra we also have representatives who are helping to make this branch of the High School activity a success.

We hope to fulfill the necessary requirements, and, in the future year 1924 we expect to graduate as honorable students of the Battle Creek High School.

Nine-one Class History

SIDNEY ROBINSON

Only once in a decade do you find a class that will compare with ours and if you don't believe it go over to Junior High and ask any teacher. That is what they told us, and like preceding classes, we believed them. They wept so copiously at our leaving that the janitors had to drain the building. We thought that our fame and numbers had undoubtedly preceded us, however we were doomed to the fate of most Freshmen.

We caught the high school spirit so soon that we had our first year officers elected before we entered. We selected for President, Glenn Wilkinson; Vice-President, Glenn Curtis; Secretary, Imogene Orvis; Treasurer, Gordon Merchant; Athletic Director, Illa Burch; and later Miss Cross became our faculty advisor.

Thus far we have raised enough money to place our pictures in the PAEAN, have stayed away from chapel and have bought Keys.

We expect in the near future to lead the school in scholarship and in all forms of school activities.

During the year 1920-21 the B. A. A. had one of its most successful seasons. At the first meeting Le Roy Stureman, Donald Bauer, and Robert Baker were elected president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Harold Beebe and L. Stureman were elected to the board of control. The football season more than put the association "on its feet" and the basketball season produced a financial surplus.

New uniforms for the basketball team, headgears for the football team, and all the football equipment for the next year, have already been bought and paid for. A backstop was erected upon the new athletic field and some of the work was paid for out of the B. A. A. funds. Even after all this, a substantial amount was left with which to start the coming year.

More people have attended the games in the past year than ever before in the school history. The crowds grew so large during the basketball season that a limit had to be set.

Next year with the new field completed, Battle Creek High School will be the best equipped school in the state, without a doubt, and we hope to put teams in the field to match the size of the attendance.

One of the things which kept the interest at such a high pitch among the student body was the many "pep" meetings which were held. Great sport was derived from the brilliant oratory of the different players.

The association wishes to thank the student body and also the townspeople for their cooperation. We hope to see the new association enjoy as good if not a better season.

FOOTBALL SQUAD

BASKETBALL SQUAD

Football

One of the chief reasons why our football season of 1920 was such a success, is that two weeks before school started twenty-five men reported to Coach Thompson at the football training camp held at Fine Lake. Consequently when the real season started the large squad was in good condition and ready for hard work which was soon given them.

With Capt. Sherman, Bauer, Stureman, Kelley, Beebe, Edmunds, and Conroy, letter men from the season before and Moore, Grover, York, Overholt, Harris, Miller Fonda, O'Donnell, White and Marine, all good material, it is not difficult to see why Thompson was gratified and optimistic. The line with Edmunds, Moore ends, Sherman, Harris tackles, Conroy, Overholt centers, O'Donnell, Grover and Fonda guards averaged a little over 160 pounds to the man. The backfield composed of Lynch, Stureman quarter-backs, Kelley, Beebe half-backs and Bauer full-back averaged 152 pounds and made up for weight by their speed.

The schedule for 1920 was a long list of hard teams such as Plainwell, Abion, Lansing, Detroit, Jackson, Kazoo, and Grand Rapids South. An early game with Marshall resulting in a tie, gave the team a good work out, and showed the weakness of its offense. The team found its stride after this game and some hard battles took place at Athletic Park. Grand Rapids and Detroit Western were newcomers on the schedule of this school and they were both royally introduced—to defeat.

Kalamazoo came with an unusual fast team and after a glorious fight, with our line made up entirely of substitutes in the second half, they carried off a victory 10-0, but ask them if they did not have to work for it.

Basketball

Great things were expected of this school in this branch of athletics and it is with a thrill of pride that we look over the season's record and then let our minds wander back to some of the scenes in our gymnasium where members of our team, fighting every minute for their school and Coach Thompson, were giving all they had in them.

Although our basket-ball team was one of the lightest in the State they made up for it by their "fight," "speed," and good "condition."

With practically the same team back from the year before, composed of Stureman, Beebe forwards, Sumeril center and Bauer, Sherman guards, not many positions were open for new men, however Conroy and Yerger proved to be too good for the second team and soon won places as centers on the regular squad. As most of the opposing teams that played this year outweighed our team, the coaches found it necessary to switch men during every game; for example Conroy and Yerger each usually played half a game at center and Summeril changed off at the forward positions with Beebe and Stureman. The life of a guard is not quite so strenuous, and so by staying in good condition Bauer and Sherman played almost the whole of every game during the entire season.

It seemed as though another year must go by with two defeats suffered at the hands of our good rivals Kazoo on the court but, no, it was not to be this time. In the first game over at Kazoo it took their two teams three five minute overtime periods to finally wear our bunch out and win 25-17. Then here at home luck once more deserted the Yellow and Blue and the game went to them 19-14 in an overtime game with three regulars on the side lines as the result of person fouls. But at last, when only a favored few of the fans of this city were present, Battle Creek defeated and eliminated Kalamazoo Central from the championship race 16-13 and for once during the season did the better team win.

Other bright spots of the season were the defeat of Ann Arbor, Lansing, Grand Rapids Union, Jackson and many others. After beating Grand Rapids Union twice during the season, we met them at two tournaments and both times they proved a stumbling block. Union finally won the State championship at Lansing.

Alden Thompson deserves more than he will probably ever receive for the way he has "put this school on the map" in basket-ball and for the interest he has aroused right here in this city.

Next year the whole team with the exception of Stureman and Summeril will be back and let's watch them go.

BASEBALL TEAM

TRACK TEAM

Baseball

The Baseball squad started practice early in March inside of the gymnasium, and so many men reported that the gym was too crowded and not much could be accomplished until outdoor work was permitted. The cold weather hindered the players from getting their arms in good shape, and consequently the team was not in very good condition for the first few games.

Coaches Flannery and Thompson had five veterans back from the preceding year and lots of good material to pick from for the open positions. Honeychurch settled down on first in good shape and looked better than ever, as his hitting has improved wonderfully. The job of catching was one of the big problems confronting the coaches, as Lynch, thought to be a possible candidate was found to be more valuable out in the field. Then after a little consideration Thompson told Stureman that he was elected to the receiving end and Smith for most of the mound work. This combination worked to perfection and whenever two games were played close together Stureman relieved Smith, and Lynch came in behind the bat. Every position on the infield was open and Conroy after playing one game at second was switched to third and Robinson to shortstop. Both of these men have worked hard and are playing stellar ball. After Capt. Murray had convinced the coaches that he was not the man for second base, Skidmore, a freshman, was given a chance and came through fine, his fielding and hitting a great help to the team. Sherman, Lynch, Murray and Beebe have played good steady games in the outfield and although they never do anything sensational you can always depend upon them to do their part.

At first the defense of the team was poor and a couple of games were thrown away, but everyone soon steadied down and now they are all playing together like big league ball-players. It is safe to say that we have one of the hardest hitting teams in the state and most of our games have been won by base hits together with fast running.

The Girls' Athletic Association

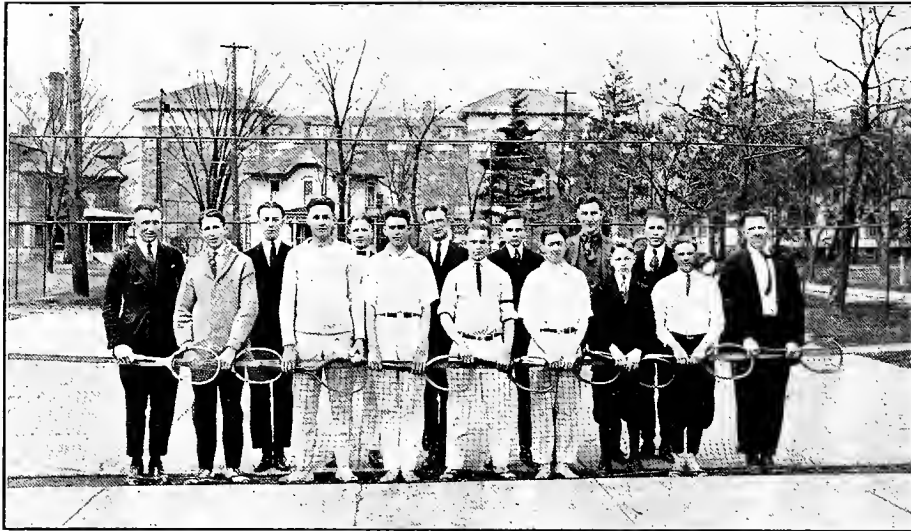

MARTHA GOOLD

Although the Girls' Athletic Association is one of the oldest girls' organizations in Battle Creek High School, the organization has not lost the enthusiastic support of the girls, and it is now one of the liveliest and most progressive clubs in the school. The progress and well-being of the club is in a large part due to our President, June Tucker. The other officers for this year who have capably filled their positions are: Evelyn Covert, Vice-President; Susan Marsden, Secretary; and Marian Shouldice, Treasurer.

Since the officers of the association change from year to year, it was suggested by the President that a member of the faculty be elected to act in the same capacity for the G. A. A. that Mr. Baker does for the B. A. A. This idea met with approval from the girls and was acted upon at once. Miss Cross was chosen for the position.

The association wishes to thank the Boys' Athletic Association for its financial assistance, and also to thank those who have so heartily supported the girls' games.

The G. A. A. wishes to encourage that spirit of loyalty to the school and its activities, and honor in its athletics that have kept the name of B. C. H. S. so high in both the community and the state.

The Tennis Club

CHARLES KNEELAND

After a vacation of twelve years, tennis has regained prominence among the important high school sports.

Several improvements have been made on our court. It is one of the best in the city, and past contests have attracted the eyes of many interested students.

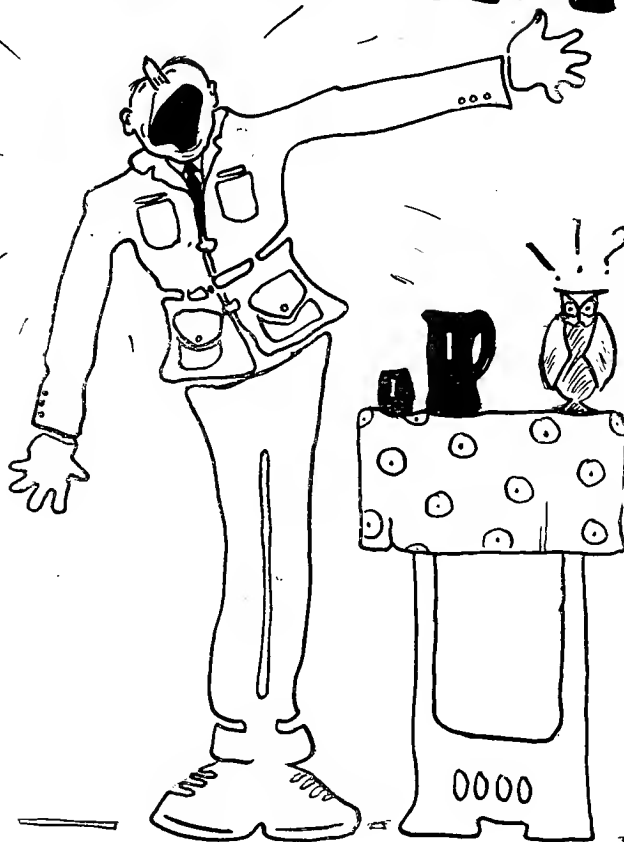

Last year, fifteen active members took part in a home tournament whose winners represented Battle Creek High School in a very successful contest with Kalamazoo.

Two matches with East Lansing and Kalamazoo constitute our schedule this season, and we hope that our local net men will prove their skill to be superior at tennis this year, as well as in the years to come.

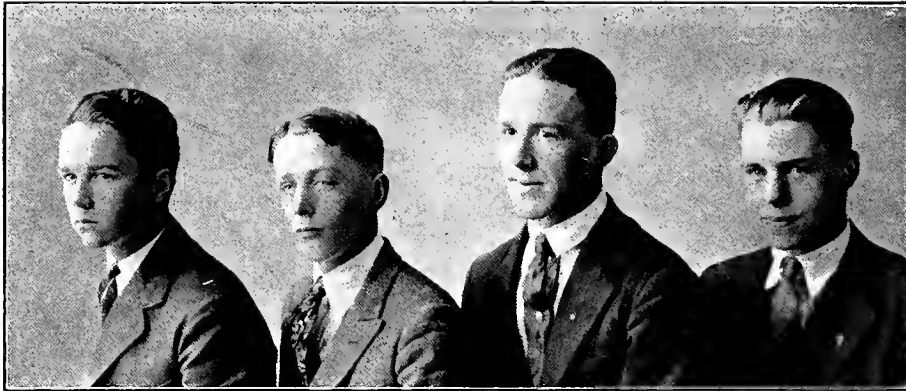

Interest as well as members and outside competition, have doubled. We shall work to realize our hope that tennis may soon be ranked as one of the major sports of the high school of this city.

Interscholastic Debating

AUGUST E. JOHANSEN

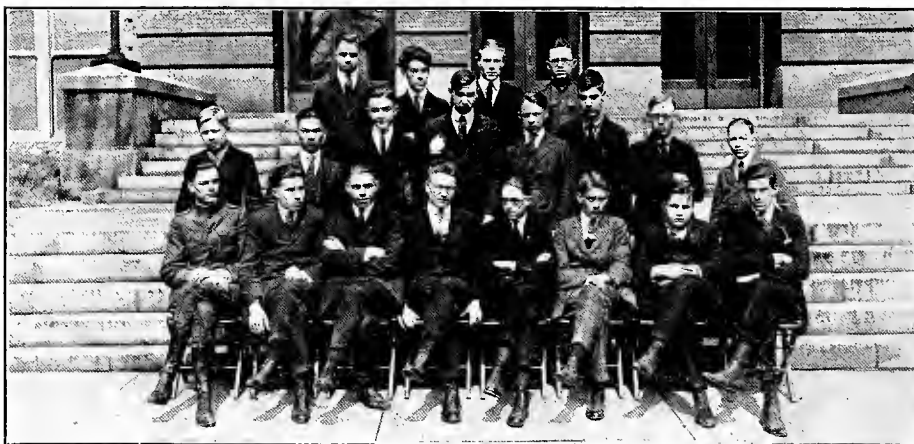

Not only has the interest in debating increased in Battle Creek High School, but something of the old-time success of the Debating Team has returned.

Two debates were held this year with other schools. The first one, with Lansing last fall, resulted in a tie, the Affirmative teams of both schools winning by a two to one vote.

The teams which participated in the Annual Triangular event, between Kalamazoo, Muskegon, and Battle Creek, were: Affirmative, Geraldine Knight, August Johansen, and Edward Brigham; Negative, Bergein Overholt, Geraldine Conrad, and Merrill Bramble. The contest resulted in a decisive victory for Battle Creek, both of our teams winning by a unanimous decision.

The subject, which was the same in both contests, was: "Resolved that the adjustment of disputes between employer and employee be made a part of the administration of justice."

All the members showed fine debating ability, and all, including our coach, Mr. Wells, deserve equally, the credit for the successful year.

The Athenian Debating Club

EDWARD M. BRIGHAM, JR.

Last fall the Debating and Oratory Club reorganized into the Athenian Debating Club and soon grew to be one of the leading school organizations.

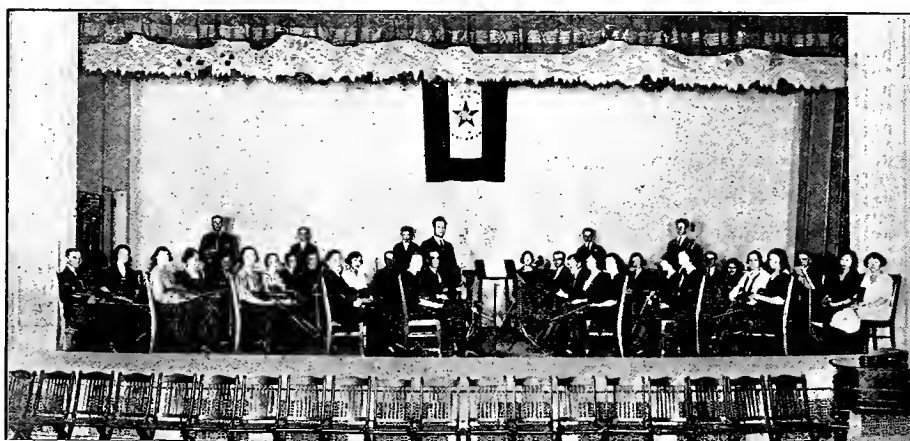

The new officers who were elected were: Edward Brigham, President; La-Verne Wright, Vice-president; and Forest Ostrander, Sec'y.-Treas. There are at present about thirty active members in the Athenian Club who have done much to keep debating among the leading school activities.

Much of the success of debating this year has been due to the enthusiasm and splendid leadership of Mr. Wells. His genius as a coach and debater has helped all who have worked with him.

Last December the B. C. H. S. Debating Teams tied in a Dual Debate with Lansing. On April 7, 1921 they won unanimously over both Kalamazoo and Muskegon in the annual Triangular Debate and thus ended the most successful debating season in years.

Soon after the beginning of school in September, a mass meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. Florence Lazarus, the new president, was chairman, and the following officers were elected: Gertrude Dutton, vice president; Marion Shouldice, secretary; Ruth Glasune, Treasurer. In due time the committees were organized thusly—Patriotic committee: Francis Parrish, chairman; Miss Whelan, faculty adviser. Public Service: Evelyn Covert, chairman; Miss Mann, faculty adviser. Social Committee: Guila French, chairman; Miss Coburn, faculty adviser. School Service Committee: Hazel Kirkland, chairman; Miss Maveety, faculty adviser. Publicity Committee: Marguerite Ainsworth, chairman; Miss Jones, faculty adviser.

Some of the work accomplished by this organization is as follows: Took care of medicine cabinet, sold Red Cross stamps, sold poppies for the American Legion, found employment for girls. Our "Kandy Kids" sold refreshments at every baseball game, and from this work we will have helped put up a flagpole one hundred and twenty feet high, on our new athletic field.

This organization never could have had such a wonderful success if it had not been for the cooperative spirit our members have shown, and the splendid untiring effort of our president, Florence Lazarus, and our very efficient Faculty adviser, Miss Laura Cannon.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The Girls' Dramatic Club

MARGARET L. WILKINS

The Girls' Dramatic Club has completed its fourth successful year of existence; it has accomplished many things and has left a favorable impression upon the school.

That interest in the organization has increased with amazing rapidity is proved by the number of girls who tried out for membership during the last semester.

Due to this fact the club became so large that, necessarily, the standards of entrance were raised and it has become difficult to gain admittance.

At the first meeting of the year the officers elected were: President, June Knisley; Vice-President, Charlotte O'Brien; Secretary, Margaret Wilkins; Treasurer, Ruby Hart. In February, as Miss Hart was unable to attend all of the meetings, Helena Knapp was elected assistant treasurer.

As the Dramatic Club of '20 and '21 could not allow any precedent to be forgotten, upon the fifth of November the annual entertainment was given. It consisted of three plays: "Joint Owners in Spain" by Alice Brown. "Nevertheless" by Stuart Walker and "The Golden Doom" by Lord Dunsaney.

The success of the program was largely due to the efforts of Miss Jones and Miss Whelan, under whose able direction the plays were produced.

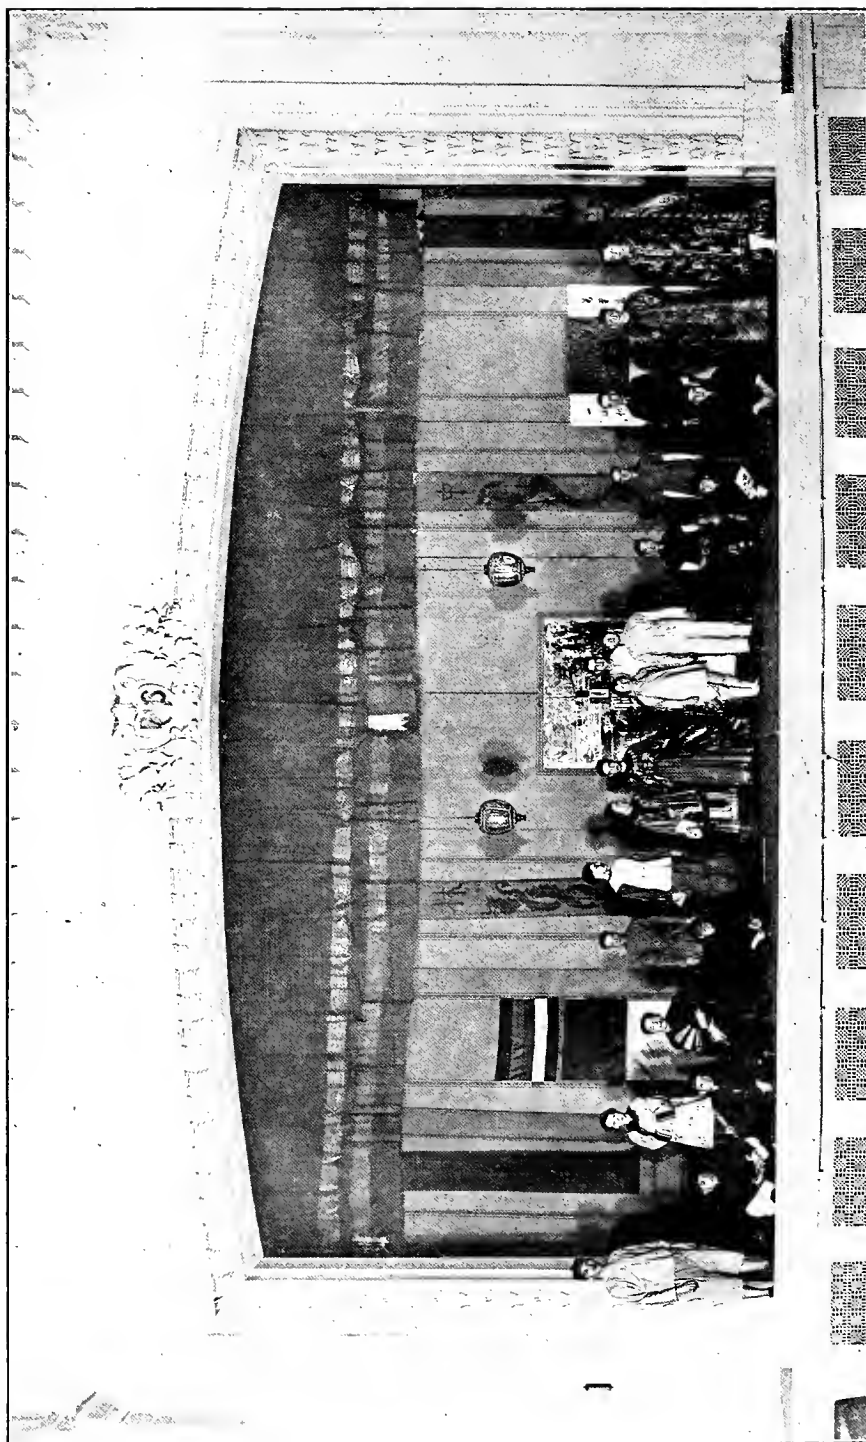

Soon after the presentation of the annual entertainment the resignation of Miss Whelan, faculty adviser, left the club without a guide. For two years a large part of its progress and success of the club was the result of the interest, enthusiasm and splendid leadership of Miss Whelan.

Her successor, Miss Bastedo, has unquestionably proved her executive ability as the new faculty adviser.

Not being able to remain long inactive the Club gave its second annual tea. Invitations were given to the women instructors, the wives of the men on the faculty; to the schoolboard, and to the girls' mothers. The afternoon was spent pleasantly, the girls acting as hostesses.

This event, extremely novel in relation to school activities, was the termination of an interesting and profitable year.

THE SENIOR PLAY

1921

The Senior Play

MARJORIE HOOPER

When Miss Bernice Jones announced that the play selected for the class of '21 would be of quite another nature than that anticipated, something like a furor was created in our midst. Questions immediately arose in the minds of the Seniors whether a play whose subject was so remote from our workaday interests would meet with general favor—whether it would “take.”

All doubts of the success of “The Chinese Lantern” were dispelled at the very beginning of the play. The Prologue, giving the general characteristics of the Chinese and hints of the play, and written by Miss Krell, was given by Gwin Goodwin.

The curtain rose to disclose a bizarre background, comprising a medley of Chinese paintings, lanterns, and the chattering students of Mr. Olangsti, heatedly discussing the possibility of receiving their “yens.” In the middle background was prominent a picture representing the gate of a moon-lit garden, the entrance to which was illuminated by a realistic lantern.

Olangsti, the boys’ teacher, was admirably represented by Lyndon Fogel-song, and Mrs. Olangsti, the amiable (?) head of the household, by Leonore Weeks. We say the “head of the household,” for in all matters she dominated her husband and his apprentices.

June Knisley was in every respect delightful as the little Korean slave girl, whose wisdom was at first so ill-recognized by Tikipu. The audience wondered how Tikipu could have been so obdurate to her pathetic little plea to be understood:

“You’ll never be big until you’re littler than the littlest thing there is.”

Next moment we relented, at the same time realizing Don Kelley’s splendid portrayal of the distress of the aspiring boy, thwarted in his dearest hopes.

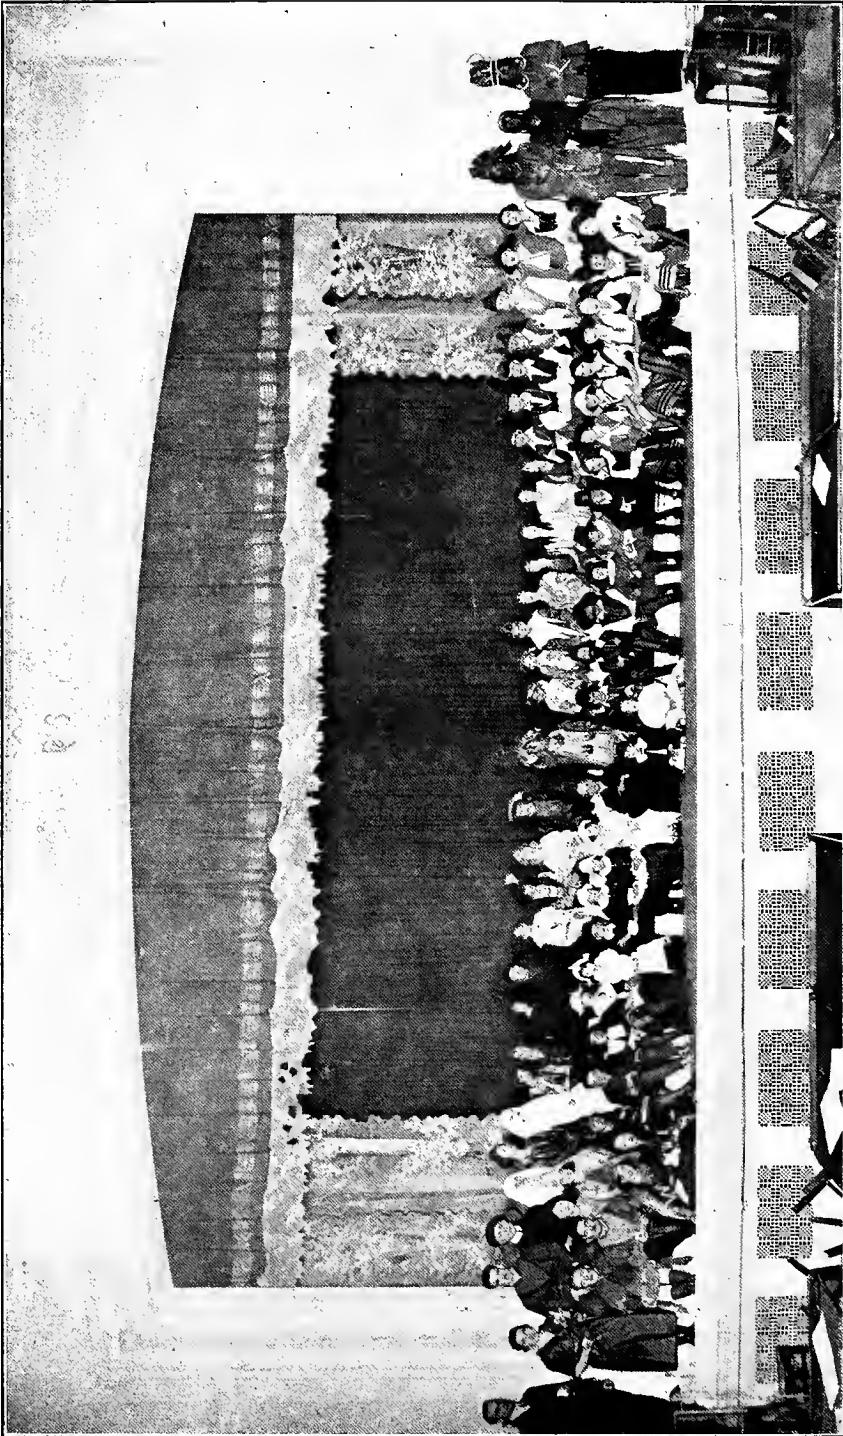

In grotesque contrast to the slave-boy’s ardent ambition was the sleepiness of Younglangsti. Once a young grocer of promise, he had been bereft of his chosen occupation, and directed to marry a little servant, merely because of an omen connected with her. “How would you like to be in like case?” was visible in every feature of Mulford Shaw’s face, as he gave his drowsy lines.

An excellent opportunity for effectiveness was offered by the mystical appearance of the spirit of Wiowani, the old artist. Carl French filled this part most satisfactorily.

Merrill Bramble, clad in rags, and impersonating Josi-Mosi, a money-lender, outdid himself while Holt Hollinger displayed the “shabby soul” of Cusi-Mosi to great advantage.

A number of efficient committees had charge of the publicity, music, electrical and scenic effects, costumes, properties and makeup. Many persons not officially mentioned were keenly active in cooperations. The dramatic ability of the cast, supplemented by the tireless enthusiasm of Miss Jones, assured the effectiveness of the presentation.

“Take it for all in all” the Senior Play of 1921 was a signal success, and it bids fair to leave an indelible record in the annals of Battle Creek High School.

THE JUNIOR PAGEANT

The Junior Pageant

THORA HOYT

This year, the fifth annual Junior Pageant was presented by the Senior Class of 1922, before the Christmas holidays,—a very unusual time. It was given in commemoration of the Ter-centenary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock, December 20, 1620.

The two persons responsible for the dramatic success of the masque, are Miss Bernice Jones, who transformed the mere amateurs into finished actors and actresses, and Miss Frances Seibert, who skillfully directed the dances.

The pageant known as, "The King's Progress," is a Tudor Spectacle; it presents an incident in the Progress of King Edward VI of England, 1548-1552.

Some strolling players, headed by Mary Louis Kennedy, as Tab, and Robert Kirschman as Lib, wander into the estate of Lord Admiral Seymour, played by Louis White, a burly blustering man, recently married to Catherine Parr, widow of Henry VIII. The admiral becomes furious at the presence of the young players and arrests them. His entrance is followed by that of Lady Seymour, Thora Hoyt, who is completely under the Admiral's domination. Julius Harris as Sir John Bale, companion of the players, intercedes for them, but is interrupted by the arrival of the Duke of Somerset, Donald Sherman, and The Majesty's tutors.

The King, followed by his sisters, the Princess Mary and the Princess Elizabeth, enters, and being interested in the education of the common people, gives the players their freedom, when they show their ability as players. The above parts were unusually well taken by Leon Snyder, Helen Graham and Gertrude Frecking.

This preceded the play, "The New World," showing the conditions in England which caused the Pilgrims to come to America; the latter being a prophetic play of the "inevitable future."

Both nights that the pageant was given the auditorium was filled and everyone was united in thinking that it was one of the finest Junior Pageants ever staged in Battle Creek High School.

CHARLES C. THOMA, JR.

Last fall The Battle Creek High School Radio Club was re-organized and the following officers were elected: President, Charles C. Thoma Jr.; Vice-President, Adrill Spaulding; Secretary-Treasurer, Homer Davis; Faculty Advisor, W. G. Marburger. A new constitution was adopted, and the club became affiliated with The American Radio Relay League. The Club now has twenty-six members on its roll.

The radio station whose special call letters are 8YN was completely remodeled so that at the present time it is one of the best High School Stations in the Middle West. This station is operated on Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights of each week.

The progress of The Battle Creek High School Radio Club and its station can be attributed to the untiring efforts that W. G. Marburger, Instructor of Physics has given to this interesting work.

CHORUS

1921

Chorus

LUCY KINGSLEY

An organization which should have greater publicity and hence be better known by members of the high school, is the chorus class.

It has been a part of the school for a number of years, and although meeting but once a week, it has furnished a class in which the students who were interested in music, could have some training in part singing.

In January of this year, the chorus decided to elect officers, a decision new to the class. Oakley Herrick was chosen as president; Keene Wolfe, vice-president; Lucy Kingsley, secretary; and Ethel Lacy, treasurer.

Our enrollment for the past year has been over one hundred, and there has been much greater interest shown than ever before.

All of those who attended the May Festival given by the chorus and glee clubs will testify to the splendid work accomplished under the capable leadership of Miss Marie Taylor. The following program was given:

1. Overture

H. S. ORCHESTRA

2. Dance of the Snow-Flakes C. Chaminade
Lullaby from "Jocelyn" Benjamin Godard

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

APOLLO CLUB

8. Three Springs Paul Bliss

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

The people who as members of this organization, have shared its benefits, believe that the chorus has just finished the most successful year of its history.

The Boys' Glee Club

LYNDON FOGLESONG

The year 1920-21 has been the best one the Boys' Glee Club has seen in many years. This is chiefly due to the efficient work of Miss Marie Taylor. At one of the first meetings Oakley Herrick was elected president; Russell Conroy, vice president; and Keene Wolfe, secretary and treasurer.

Although the club has been small as compared with former years, it has made up for its size in the quality of its singing

At the annual May Festival the whole Glee Club did exceptionally well, and the boys feel amply repaid for the time they spent in practicing for that event.

Several of the boys are going with the class of '21, but they are leaving a nucleus around which a fine club may be built next year.

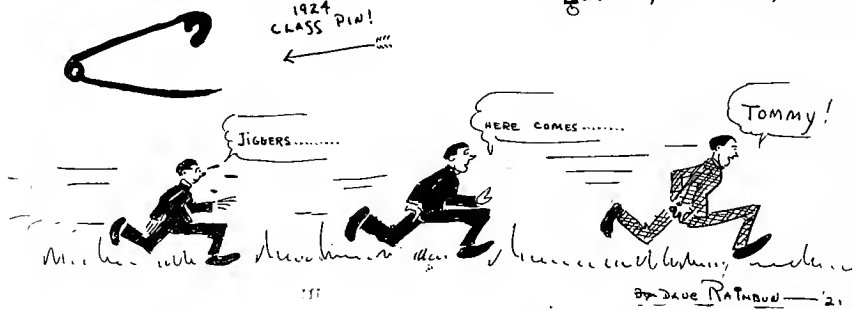

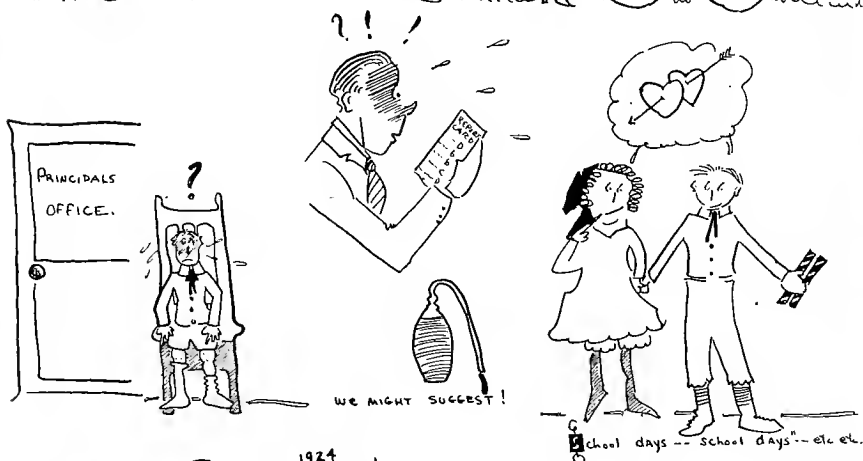

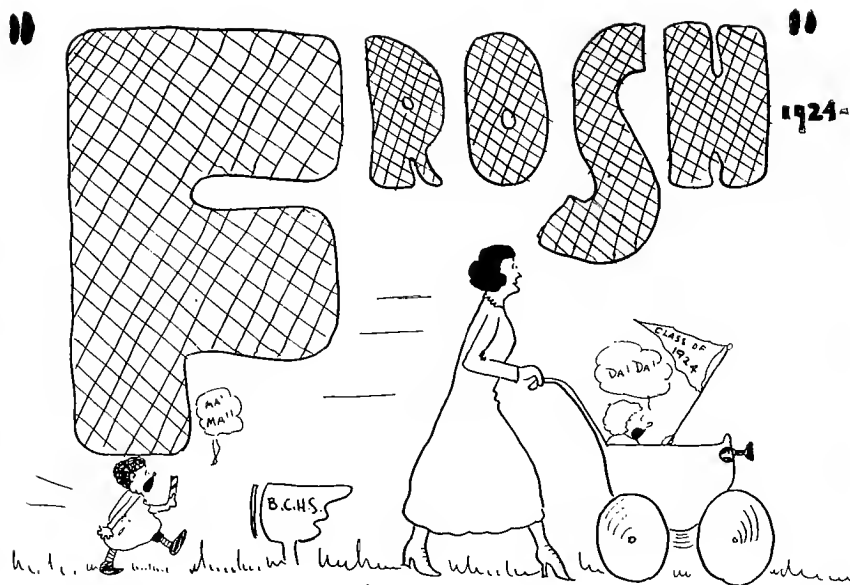

Junior "Aggie Club"

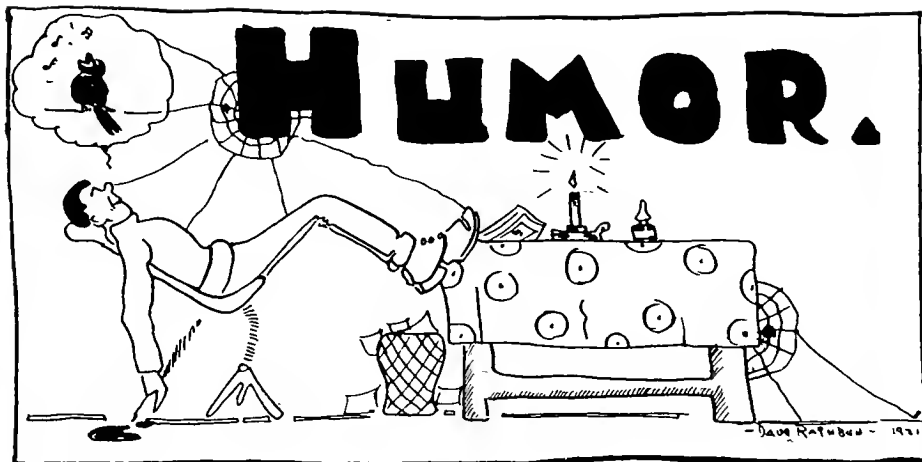

HARRISON HOWES

A new activity of the Battle Creek High School is under the name of the Junior "Aggie Club." Officers of the school term of nineteen twenty-one, were elected as follows: Evro Millar, president; Ross Wellever, vice-president; Harrison Howes, secretary; Percy Fruin, treasurer; Otis Olmstead, reporter. Social and program committees, Lindsey Morat, Percy Fruin and Ross Wellever, with Mr. Sears as faculty adviser.

The purpose of this organization is the mutual improvement of the members' knowledge of agriculture and its kindred arts and sciences.

The Program Committee has been very fortunate in obtaining several prominent men. Talks were given by Mr. J. H. Brown of Battle Creek, editor of the Michigan Farmer, on "Old Times in Battle Creek;" Mr. McDermid on "Fruit Growing;" Mr. Cooley on "The Different Breeds of Chickens;" Mr. Brink on "Farm Economics;" Mr. P. Jameson, County Farm Bureau Agent, on the "National Farm Bureau;" and Mr. Hain, from M. A. C. on "Insects."

When you procure some H_2S ,
And other stuff as bad—or less,
And mix a frightful smelling mess—
That's Preparation.

And when you take the tube of stuff
And pour it through some paper rough,
And half of it goes down your cuff—
That's Filtration.

And when you dump some acid in,
And shake it up and boil it thin,
And stir it for a while like sin—
That's Separation.

But when you've worked both hard and long
Make your report with courage strong
And Mr. Baker says: "It's wrong"—
That's Heck and Thunderation!

Beardsley—I smell rubber burning!

Mr. Marburger—Keep your neck away from that burner!

Helen Cavanaugh—And when will this telegram be delivered?

Messenger—Between 2 and 3 o'clock.

Helen—Yes, but on what day?

Norman Clark—Give me 10c worth of pins. How much are they?

Mr. Shuart—And do you know what the knocking is at the end of the murder scene in McBeth?

Hen—Yes, I'm still single.

Richard—But you intend to marry some day don't you?

Hen—I do, unless some woman changes my mind.

If everybody married for love, think of the money it would keep out of circulation.

Marion—And if he were to propose would you accept?

Frances—Oh I might temporarily. The poor fellow needs encouragement and I'm not engaged to anybody just at present.

"—and when I was in France with the Boy Scouts—"

Red—What is the Assembly room for?

Lyndon—A place to chew gum and get behind in your work.

Lyndon—Why do those two girls hate you so?

Ted—I once told them that they looked alike!

Be sociable like a barber, he's always scraping acquaintances.

Tommy—Back to town again? I thought you were a farmer.

Arch—You made the same mistake I did.

Norm—I wish that waiter would stop staring at us.

Cowels—Yeah, I don't like his policy of watchful waiting.

Madge—Have you bought all your Christmas presents?

Fran—I thought I had but I must be mistaken. I find I have some money left.

George—It takes nerve to wear an extremely short skirt.

Rich—Yes, and I can think of a couple of other good reasons too!

Miss 1921—What would you advise me to do doctor?

Doc—Either go south or put on more clothes.

Mother—Richard, our son was arrested for going 40 miles an hour, and wants us to bail him out.

Father H.—Huh! If he can't go any faster than that let the boy stay in jail!

Stern parent—And young man, would you take my darling forever?

Dave—(pardon) Why—er—did you think I was negotiating a loan?

Russel—I wish you got a dollar for every word you write!

Guila—I wish I got half a cent for every word you speak! Q. E. D.

Miss Jones—Can you tell me what it is with heads on one side, and tails on the other?

Hollinger—Aw I know, its a rooster on a fence!

Bill gets the good things out of many many nuts.

Thoma—How many shirts do you wear a week?

Fogelsong—Y'mean how many weeks do I wear a shirt.

Freddie—Are those two girls twins?

Chas—Naw, they're sisters.

Don Kelley—Ain't love Grand? (maybe so, Don, maybe so!)

Loui—Why does a girl wear a hair net?

Harold—To keep the rats from drowning in the marcel waves.

Louise—I once knew a man who gave a girl an engagement ring of opals.

Jim—Gracious wasn't it unlucky?

Louise—You bet it was. She married him!

Dorothy—I was in a very embarrassing position this morning.

Ruby—What was it?

Dorothy—I had to rescue Shorty from drowning when he was teaching me how to swim!

Hank Branson—I know not on which side of the street to walk, for I owe people on both sides.

Guila—Oh if the Lord had only made me a man!

Catherine—Maybe he has and you haven't found him yet.

Dan—What do you do when a woman asks your advice?

Lawrence—Find out what she's made up her mind to do.

He dreamed a castle in the air—

A lazy chap's ideal one;

And sold the plan to a busy man,

With cash enough to build one.

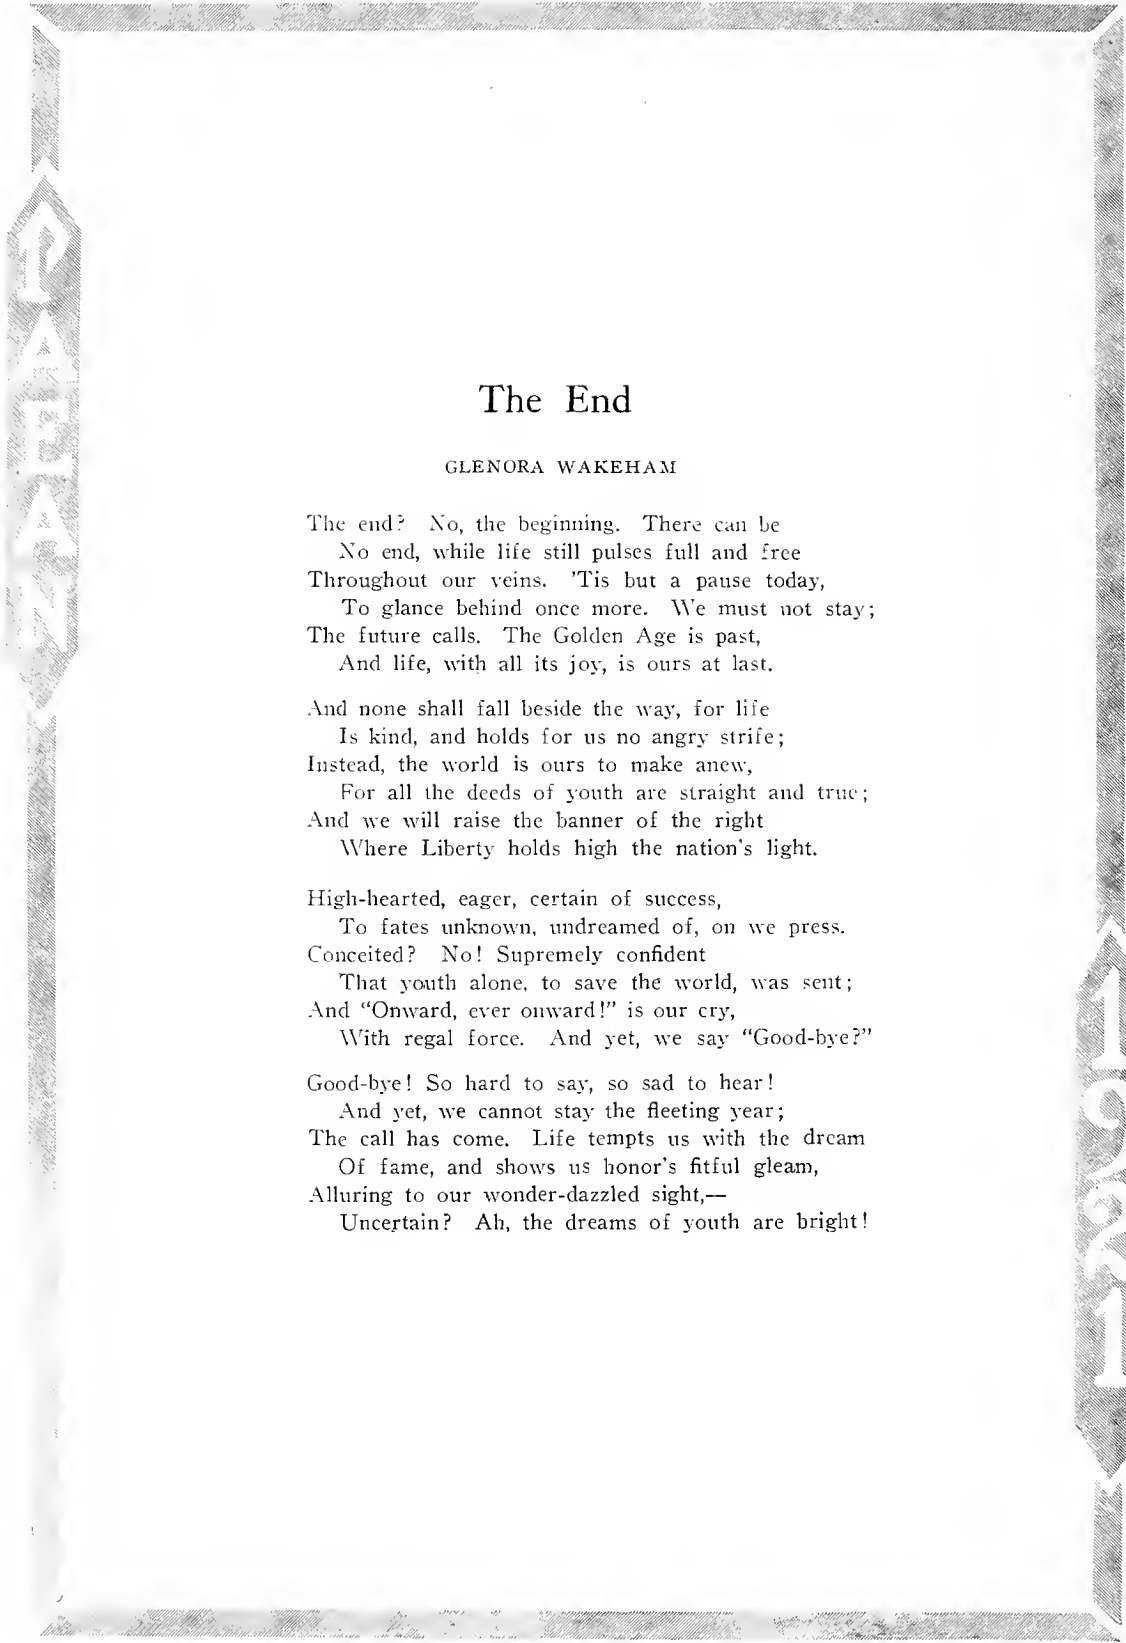

Morg—Is he a close friend of yours?

Larry—Yes indeed, I can't borrow a cent from him!

Jack—When I was a child I had hair on only one side of my head.

Joe—You must have looked peculiar. Which side was it?

Jack—The outside.

The End

GLENORA WAKEHAM

The end? No, the beginning. There can be
No end, while life still pulses full and free
Throughout our veins. 'Tis but a pause today,
To glance behind once more. We must not stay;
The future calls. The Golden Age is past,
And life, with all its joy, is ours at last.

And none shall fall beside the way, for life
Is kind, and holds for us no angry strife;
Instead, the world is ours to make anew,
For all the deeds of youth are straight and true;
And we will raise the banner of the right
Where Liberty holds high the nation's light.

High-hearted, eager, certain of success,
To fates unknown, undreamed of, on we press.
Conceited? No! Supremely confident
That youth alone, to save the world, was sent;
And "Onward, ever onward!" is our cry,
With regal force. And yet, we say "Good-bye?"

Good-bye! So hard to say, so sad to hear!
And yet, we cannot stay the fleeting year;
The call has come. Life tempts us with the dream
Of fame, and shows us honor's fitful gleam,
Alluring to our wonder-dazzled sight,—
Uncertain? Ah, the dreams of youth are bright!
